

Updated December 2017

Important Notice

The rules and regulations of Inova Loudoun Hospital have been revised and presently do not include the ability for CNM's to care for patients with certain risk factors. It is LCM's mission to serve the women of Northern Virginia to the fullest extent of our license and scope of practice. We proudly started LCM at Inova Loudoun fourteen years ago, and have supported women's choices for how they birth ever since. In order to continue to serve all our patients, we have decided to transition to Stone Springs hospital.

Loudoun Community Midwives has been working with our patients to make sure everyone has been informed and kept up-to-date on all our changes and timeline. Starting in mid-December, LCM will be delivering full time at Stone Springs Hospital Center. We know that many of you have felt unsure of where you will deliver with your midwife, and we appreciate all of your understanding and patience with us as we continue to move to our "new home".

We will continue to deliver at The Birthing Inn during this final transition period. We ask that anyone with questions or if you are unsure of where your birth will be, to please call and speak to one of our midwives.

We are truly humbled by our patients support and love during these last few months. We are landing in our new home soon, and we are excited to provide true midwifery care to all our moms at Stone Springs Hospital.

Sincerely,

The Staff at Loudoun Community Midwives
